

WORKSHOP ANNOUNCEMENT

What White People Can Do About Racism
DECENTERING WHITENESS

How to act against racism from a position of unearned (and unwanted) racial privilege

Saturday
December 10, 2016

9:00 AM - 3:30 PM
Brooklyn Friends Meeting House
110 Schermerhorn Street
Brooklyn, NY 11201

Presented by the Center for the Study of White American Culture (CSWAC)

United States society is historically and presently structured by race. White people have a privileged position within that structure. Many white people understand this implicitly and are uncomfortable with the inherent unfairness, but do not know what to do about it. This workshop is intended to give people some basic knowledge about:

- basic concepts and models
- decentering whiteness, as a goal
- building multiracial community, as a goal
- the inter-dependent nature of these two goals

Cost: $95 per participant, including lunch. Sliding scale and student rates available.

MORE ➡

The workshop touches on several topics in an introductory way, including:

- basic concepts important to a multiracial perspective
- centered and decentered whiteness
- features of whiteness as centered
- decentering these same features of whiteness
- essence of a multiracial community
- how to begin building multiracial community
- requirements for multiracial community building
- visioning a multiracial community

Format: a 6-hour workshop offered on a single day with a morning session, a lunch break, and an afternoon session. The workshop uses didactic presentation, paired discussions, small group discussion, large group discussion, and sharing stories. Handouts are made available to participants.

The registration fee covers all materials, plus lunch.

The workshop has been developed under the care of the Center for the Study of White American Culture, Inc. (CSWAC) in Roselle, NJ. Each workshop is conducted by a team of CSWAC trainers who are also anti-racist activists with a history as organizers and facilitators working in cross-racial alliances.

Requirements: The workshop is appropriate for white people who are open to learning what to do about racism, perhaps feeling they should be doing something but not sure what. The workshop is also appropriate for people of color who want to support white people who want to take action against racism.

What Participants have said about Decentering Whiteness...

Great structure for conversation, but not to the point where it was stifled.

Sam Eckmeier

The opening slideshow was very helpful for me to grasp and begin to internalize this concept of "decentering whiteness."

Emily Kaufman

The small group and large group discussions were very rich and valuable experiences. So much of the information was offered in an eye-opening and new perspective manner.

participant

The environment was very open and non-judgmental. The conversations were fluid and informative. Largely new information [about decentering whiteness] and this was the most exciting for me

Cooper Dodds

Introduced a model that complemented other anti-racist/racial justice trainings I've had and taught me many new things.

Emily Tunney

The concept [of decentering whiteness] is so innovative but so important and obviously necessary in USA society.

participant

What went well about this workshop? Everything. Kudos!

Linda Clarke

The dialogue and conversations were very rich. Excellent presenters and facilitators of conversation. It was well-paced.

Stephanie Williams

Thank you! The workshop was well-organized and thought out. Thank you for your time and insights and for sharing this work with us.
